Art Unit: 1742

1. The Examiner has carefully considered Applicant's Amendment and Remarks of 4/21/04. The Examiner finds that Applicant's Amendment frees most of the claims from the prior art. However, the Examiner finds that the limitation to arrangement of phases to be met in the prior art and maintains the rejection in regard to those claims.

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claim 41 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The limitation of the further ductile phase is unclear. It appears that the further ductile phase can be selected from two groups, a first group starting with Co and ending with Nb, alloys thereof, and a second group of "and alloys with materials selected from the group consisting of B, Cr, and Mn;". It is unclear why these two groups are listed separately. and why B, Cr, and Mn are not listed in the first group, unless there is a meaning to this particular language. Applicant should discuss and/or clarify this limitation.

4. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

5. Claims 43-45 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fang et al. '382.

Art Unit: 1742

Fang et al. '382 disclose the invention substantially as claimed. Fang et al. '382 disclose a cermet material comprising :

a WC hard phase; and a binder phase of Fe-Ni-Co alloys (col. 7, line 8-13.

Fang et al. '382 disclose that the binder phase have a low coefficient of thermal expansion (CTE) of less than 8um/m-K.

Fang et al. further disclose a WC particle size of 1-15um (col. 9, lines 24-27).

Thus, Fang et al. '382 discloses that the CTE is a effective variable within the invention that is modified based on the desired toughness of the material.

Fang et al. '382 further disclose wherein the hard phase can comprise other carbides with the WC including TiC (col. 8, line 21-29) and can further include carbides, borides, nitrides, carbonitrides, carboborides, and mixtures thereof, such as those based on Ti (col. 8, lines 21-27).

Fang et al. '382 further disclose that the material be used in forming a cutting element. The determination of the ratio of the binder phase materials would be determined by one of ordinary skill through routine experimentation based on the specific selection of hard phase material and the desired toughness of the final material.

The binder material being in alloy form inherently meets the limitation of an ordered structure.

6. Claim 46 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Art Unit: 1742

The prior art not disclosing or rendering obvious the binder material being iron based.

7. Claims 1-5, 7, 10-21, 25-27, 29, 32-34, 37, 40 and 42 are allowable.
